

Write or draw a time when you had a bad case of the 'stripes' by following the crowd and doing what everyone else wanted, instead of what you personally wanted.

On this side, write or draw something unique about yourself—something you enjoy or that excites you, but might make you stand out from your friends.